NEW YORK, March 19.—Private advices from Havana to Cuban merchants here say that Commissioner De La Fonda, engaged in an examination of the affairs of the Spanish Bank, has ascertained that that institution has issued $104,000,000 in paper currency instead of $60,000,000, which the bank had acknowledged in their published statement, and that their capital is only $60,000,000; further, that the basis for over issue has been a loan to the Captain-General of not less than $50,000,000 in paper currency, without specie to back up the notes. In addition a large quantity of counterfeit bills have been discovered. Many persons are exchanging their currency for real estate and buildings, holders of paper money being far more anxious to have property in buildings than to hold any quantity of depreciating currency.

SWINBURNE AND CONCORD.

A LETTER OF REMARKABLE VIGOR FROM THE ENGLISH POET—THE SWINBURNIAN STYLE EXEMPLIFIED.

[From the N. Y. Tribune.]

A distinguished American litterateur in a published interview was recently reported as speaking with a vigor of rhetoric we may be excused from repeating, of Mr A. C. Swinburne. The interview died quietly on this side of the Atlantic but met a fatal immortality beyond seas by falling under the eye of the Chastelard. In a letter to a personal friend who has had the indiscretion to send a copy to the Tribune, with a request for publication, the poet thus deluges his critic with the unclean vials of his wrath:

I am informed that certain American journalists not content with providing filth of their own for the consumption of their kind some times offer to their readers a dish of beastliness which they profess to have gathered from under the chairs of more distinguished men. While the abuse lavished on my name and writings could claim no higher than a nameless source, I have always been able to say with Shelley, "I have neither curiosity, interest, pain nor pleasure in anything, good or evil, they can say of me." I feel only a slight disgust and a sort of wonder that they presume to write my name. If I am to believe that that name has been made the mark for such vile language as is now publicly attributed to men of note in the world of letters, I who am not sufficiently an expert in the dialect of the cesspool and the dung-cart to retort in their own kind on these venerable gentlemen—I whose ears and lips are alike unused to the amenities of a conversation embroidered with such fragments of flowery rhetoric as may be fished up by congenial fingers or lapped up by congenial tongues out of the sewerage of Sodom—can return no better or more apt reply than that was addressed by the servant of Octavia to the satellite of Nero and applied by Lord Denman, when counsel for Queen Caroline, to the sycophants of George IV. "A foul mouth is so ill-matched with a white beard that I would gladly believe the newspaper scribes alone responsible for the bestial utterances which they declare to have dropped from a teacher whom such disciples as these exhibit to our disgust and compassion as performing on their obscene platform the last tricks of tongue now possible to a gap toothed and hoary-headed ape carried first into notice on the shoulder of Carlyle, and who now in his dotage spits and chatters from a dirtier perch of his own finding and fouling." Avoiding with especial emphasis which I need not specify my eyes and nostrils from the sight and savor of such things, I need not stoop as though to blow off any speck of their leaving from a name which I trust and think, though it may well be that it has gained nothing, has at least lost nothing in my hands of its honor. Those to whom it is known only as an object of reviling from writers with or without a name of their own, may yet do well to ask themselves how far such follies and such villainies may be likely to affect the repute or disturb the composure of one to whom it is given to remember that well nigh at the very outset of his course he had earned the praise and won the friendship of Landor, of Hugo and of Mazzini, and who though he may see no need and feel no inclination to seek shelter behind the name or beneath the countenance of any man, has yet in the sense of this not unmerited honor an enduring source of such pleasure and such pride as the most sweet voices of his revilers are about equally competent to give and to take away.

Jan 30 1874. A. C. SWINBURNE.

THE HISTORY—THE CRIME—THE RELIEF.

SPRINGFIELD, March 15, 1874.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I have already more than intimated that the action of Judge Williams in defeating the Humboldt Branch Pacific Railroad bill and other matters, was criminal. It will be well to explain here one of the senses in which this epithet is applied. I called attention in my second letter to the fact that there came a time in history when morally and intellectually a new era dawned upon man. Positive morality took its place by the side of the negative. To the duty of not doing harm, which may be called justice, was added the duty of doing good, which may properly receive the distinctive appellation of righteousness. This, I understand to be the meaning of the prediction which certain shepherds reported to have come to them in a mystic song heard under the open sky of night proclaiming the [illegible] of [illegible] "good will to men." This enlarged compass of morality called into existence obligations which, under the dominion of law, had hardly been acknowledged. "Love thy neighbor as thyself." "Do unto others as ye would they should do unto you." If these principles are numbered among the things not yet fully established by practice, they are at least among the things waiting to be fully realized in a more perfect day of enlightenment. Christ delivered no commands more special and positive than these, and none but were essentially deducible from them. It matters not how high an estimate any may place upon the source from which we draw, for it is beyond controversy that whether the man be Christian by name or not, he that does not in some form or other, in all stations in life, exhibit an active regard for his kind and go out of his way to do good is not to be trusted—is only fit for treason, stratagems and spoils. No man can be a statesman in this sense—that is not a patriot and does not love his country. No man loves his country and is loyal to it but loves the welfare of his kind. Whoever enters official place and power destitute of these governing principles, is made the person that cannot wield power long without [illegible] [illegible] for he is destitute of the better faculties that distinguish between right and wrong. We must remember that while rulers pass away with the things to which they refer, principles last forever, and we must interpret them as free men and not as slaves. A principle is best seen in its practical application, a rule in its example. Had Williams been true to the highest and best interests of the State he would have been true to the friends who placed him where he was; failing in one of these particulars he necessarily failed in both. The several counts in the indictment against him are that he is not only guilty of the unlawful, immoral and damning scheme of farming money to corrupt our elections; guilty of disposing of Government contracts for a moneyed consideration; guilty of betraying for like considerations the commercial interests of his State and friends, in the Alaska Fur Company transaction; but guilty of subverting—as far as possible for him—the entire railway and external and internal commercial interests of the State to the control of foreign capital and one man.

It was sufficient for me to state as I have done in my former letters when, where and why many of these things were done. It remains only necessary that I should particularize as to our railways. The manner and form in which I shall present them can only be fully appreciated and understood at the close, and I trust your readers will excuse me for something like dry details in the outset. It was my fortune to have spent my early days amidst the first great internal improvements of the United States, especially of the State of New York. I therefore state what I know both practically and by observation, that the internal commerce of the United States, unlike that of any other country, has been almost wholly the creation of public works. The articles of its products, whether for home consumption or exportation, are still and always have been confined within a narrow strip of territory on the Atlantic seaboard from Baltimore, northward to Portland, Maine.

The early settlements from the want even of highways were necessarily made upon the borders of navigable waters. Agriculture was the sole pursuit of the pioneer, and as settlements moved inland the lack of suitable avenues for the transportation of their products to market was found to be a serious drawback to their progress and prosperity. I recollect that when a mere child in some places westward from Buffalo I traveled barefooted upon the sand beach of Lake Erie because there was no other highway. Such articles consequently as would not bear transportation to the sea coast possessed little or no other value than to minister directly to the comforts or sustain the life of the producer.

The war of 1812 seems to have demonstrated the imperative necessity of a better communication between the sea board and the great line of Western lakes, and in 1816 a Board of Commissioners was appointed to consider the subject, and a favorable report was finally made in April 1817 and an act passed providing for the construction of the Erie canal. The work was commenced on the 4th day of July of that year and on the 4th of November 1825—eight years thereafter the waters of one of the great lakes were mingled with those of the ocean, a day ever to be held memorable in the history of our country. The report of the Commissioners referred to shows that the transportation of a ton of merchandise from Buffalo to Albany, prior to that time cost $100, but at the opening of the Erie canal was reduced to $10 and ultimately to $[illegible]. The effect was electric. [illegible] All the then Western States, for the purpose of availing themselves of its immediately [illegible] the construction of similar works. Ohio constructed two lines of canal from the Ohio river to Lake Erie. Indiana began a more elaborate system from Lake Erie to the Lower Ohio, and Illinois, after many failures, succeeded in constructing a canal from Lake Michigan to the Illinois river. These works for a time served a highly useful purpose, but as they were practicable on only a limited number of routes they were by no means adequate to the growing necessities of the rapidly increasing population and commerce. The propelling power was [illegible] feeble and impotent indeed when compared with the power of steam used upon the railway—the force of nature tributary and potent, yet trained and docile to the will of man. For this reason their construction was abandoned when the success of the greatest of all human contrivances became fully assured.

The experiments on the Manchester and Liverpool railway in 1830 proved that steam power could be successfully applied to locomotion, and railroad building commenced in this country soon after, but proceeded at a very slow rate till the discovery of gold in [illegible] [illegible] which [illegible] an epoch in the history of the nation, stimulating every department of industry and enterprise. In the year 1848 there were but 1,098 miles of railway in operation of all classes. In 1849 it had increased to [illegible] miles. From that period to 1860—10 years—the annual increase was 1,[illegible] miles. The annual increase from that time to 1871 was about 2,400 miles, making in all, up to that date, about [illegible] miles of railway in operation. Since 1871 railway construction has moved more slowly from a combination of causes, the chief of which is the immense accumulation of bonded securities both at home and abroad, issued by our cities, States, railways and the United States, containing among them bonds sent afloat on the market by a class of operators for speculative purposes only—of a very disreputable character, that we shall have occasion to explain more fully hereafter.

Railways [illegible] are practicable. Nothing [illegible]. They traverse lofty ranges of mountains with the same ease that they do extend the plain. The product of every city [illegible] the cost of transportation gives a market at the door to the producer in every portion of our vast domain. This blessing is come to us as a nation and to all nations during the brief period of a few years. Thousands now living saw its birth, and they are those who [illegible] appreciate its importance. They have seen the vast resources of an empire being developed, and its wealth unlocked to their posterity by them. Immense cities and numberless villages cover the land, the homes of industry and civilization have taken the place of the Indian hut and the tramp and voice of millions have broken the monotony of the wilderness.

The people of Oregon, gathering wisdom from the past, must learn the means of [illegible] their own development. Divided into valleys, plains and long lines of mountains she has little prospect of development but by railways. The topography of the State is such that a monopoly of routes and resources will be easily obtained by her legislative negligence, and oppressive extortions are certain to follow and continue as they have already begun. The public can never be well served till its patronage is to be won under a free competition governed by efficiency and economy. The oppression of one road is certain to lead in time to the construction of another, as a matter of self defense and protection on the part of the people. Such being the fact, the true policy was and now is the opening of two lines. But we should have anticipated these things, so sure to happen, and seasonably applied the correction. Had the bill providing for the construction of the Oregon Branch of the Pacific railroad escaped the ambition, demands of Mr Holladay and the treachery of Geo H Williams it would have supplied the generous means of healthy competition so necessary to save the State from its present distress. Respectfully yours,

B. F. PENGRA.

Harry the Indian to be hung at Fort Madison on the 20th [illegible] seems to have a faint idea of the solemn fate before him. The other day he expressed a wish that on the occasion of his execution he might be dressed in a new suit of clothes, and that "his Boston klootchman" might be present.

The [illegible] originated about Zapp's [illegible] black smith shop.

In a letter from [illegible] the writer says: "Charlie D. Whitcomb, a bright manly boy of fifteen, was drowned on the afternoon of the 4th of March, while attempting to land from a sail boat. He in company with a man named Edgar had just returned from a trip across the bay and in landing they used a small canoe which they were towing, and overturning it. Mr Edgar grasped Charles and placed him on the bottom of the canoe, but the water was freezing cold and Charles was so cold that he could hardly speak before they left the sail boat, and he could not keep his place upon the canoe, but sank in the water. Mr Edgar after placing Charles upon the canoe, attempted to swim to the large sail boat which lay near them, but the water was so cold that he had to give up, and when rescued was standing in water up to his chin. Charles was in the water about three quarters of an hour, and on being taken out was perfectly cold. Every effort was made to restore life, and all was done that could be done in such a case."

This petition has been circulated by a man who bolted the Jackson County Democratic Convention. I ask the Convention to consider the wants and the rights of the First Judicial District."

Mr Holtzclaw arose, thanked Mr Klippel and the Convention for their kindness and withdrew his name.

This left but two candidates—I. Fleischner and A. H. Brown, of Baker—and the contest on the sixth ballot was watched with intense interest. All through the ballot the candidates ran side by side and when the last name of the Yamhill delegation had been called the vote stood: Fleischner 61, Brown 61. There remained one vote—Tillamook—and A. Noltner held a proxy therefor. Mr Noltner appeared to appreciate the situation, and with a studied deliberation, which added greatly to the growing anxiety of the delegates and the partisans of the candidates, he finally pronounced that thrilling word—"Brown"—and the fight was over. The chair announced the result of the vote as follows: Brown, 62; Fleischner, 61, and declared A. H. Brown the nominee of the Democratic party of Oregon for State Treasurer.

In reply to an inquiry from Ben Hayden the chair stated that the whole number of votes cast in the Convention was 123.

Mr Hayden asked if there had not been 124 votes cast at one time.

Bellinger and several others stated that at no time had there been 124 votes.

Mr Hayden thought there had been 124 votes on several occasions and contended that a majority of all the delegates elected was necessary to a nomination. Hayden's point was overruled by the Chair, whereupon

W. J. White appealed from the decision of the Chair. White was appeased with a bland smile from the beaming features of John F. Miller, who expostulated in a low voice with the too inquisitive delegates. The chasm was bridged over temporarily and the Convention proceeded to the nomination of

STATE PRINTER.

The following candidates were named: John J. Curry by B. L. Norden, M. V. Brown by D. Carlisle, J. M. Sheppard by Shultz, J. D. Hull by Klippel, Geo Buys by Watson. Subsequently a delegate announced that Buys would not suffer his name to be used.

Ben Hayden said he would support Sheppard because he was a brother-in-law of Delazon Smith.

The first ballot was then taken, resulting as follows—Brown, 86; Curry, 16; Hull, 10; Sheppard, 12. Total 124.

The Chair announced that Mr Mart V. Brown having received a majority of all the votes cast was duly nominated State Printer.

On motion of John F. Miller the nomination was made unanimous.

Mr Klippel called for the enforcement of the rule requiring all candidates to express their views on the party platform.

Brown of Baker appeared and thanked the Convention. He said he was not much of a talker but a good deal of a worker.

Mart V. Brown said: "Mr President and Gentlemen of the Convention—I accept the nomination as State Printer because I want it. [Laughter.] The platform is good enough to take care of itself. Mr Hayden says the platform is bound to be elected and I have no doubt but I shall be elected on it."

SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION.

For this office the nominations were as follows: Geo. L. Curry by B. L. Norden, B. L. Arnold by Shannon, Rev. E. J. Dawne by J. N. T. Miller and [illegible] Campbell by Gustaf Wilson.

Ben Hayden said: "I want to know if this man Campbell is the same one who received a nomination for School Superintendent for Polk county at the hands of the hoodlum convention which recently met at Dallas. I want to know about this because I don't go a cent on the so called Independents, and I can't see how Mr Campbell can receive one nomination from the hoodlums and another from this Democratic Convention."

In reply Gustaf Wilson said that Mr Campbell was nominated by the Polk County Independent Convention without his consent. He (Campbell) had recently informed one of the Polk county delegation—Mr Penter—that he would accept the nomination for Superintendent of Public Instruction at the hands of the Democratic State Convention. Mr Penter then withdrew Mr Campbell's name.

The name of Mr Galloway, of Yamhill county, was placed in nomination.

Mr Galloway asked that a substitute for himself be appointed Assistant Secretary during the taking of the vote. B. L. Norden was appointed and on taking his seat he said: "I would in behalf of Multnomah county thank the Convention for at least one favor." (Laughter.)

Ben Hayden said: "I propose to support Mr Dawne. Although he may not have sat at the feet of Gamaliel, he did sit under the feet of Andrew Jackson."

Mr Shannon said: "At the earnest request of many friends of Prof B. L. Arnold I now withdraw that gentleman's name."

First ballot—Dawne 49, Curry 52, Galloway 12. Total 123. No choice.

Second ballot—Dawne 71, Curry [illegible], Galloway 12. Total 122.

E. J. Dawne was declared duly nominated for the office of State Superintendent of Public Instruction, and the nomination was made unanimous.

Rev. E. J. Dawne having been called for, appeared before the Convention and said that he approved the platform and would support it with all his mind and all his heart. He wanted to die not only as a Christian gentleman but also as a Democratic citizen of the United States.

RATIFICATION OF DISTRICT NOMINATIONS.

Mr J. H. Slater asked the Convention to ratify the nomination of W. B. Laswell for Prosecuting Attorney of the Fifth Judicial District. He added that Mr Laswell had been chosen by the unanimous vote of all the delegations from Eastern Oregon.

From the

SECOND JUDICIAL DISTRICT.

These nominations were sent up: For District Judge, [illegible] Mosher; for Prosecuting Attorney, C. W. Fitch, of Lane county. The action of the delegation was ratified by a [illegible] vote. The

FIRST JUDICIAL DISTRICT.

Presented the name of H. K. Hanna for Prosecuting Attorney. The nomination was ratified.

When the Third Judicial District was called for, Mr McClain moved that the Convention take a recess of half an hour, to enable the delegations from that District to consult on the nominee for Prosecuting Attorney. The motion prevailed.

AFTER RECESS.

On reassembling it appeared that many of the delegates had left the hall. It was near train time, and all were desirous of getting away as soon as possible.

Mr McClain announced that the delegation from the THIRD JUDICIAL DISTRICT.

Had agreed upon the nominee for Prosecuting Attorney, and they had authorized him to present the name of J. J. Whitney of Albany. The nomination was ratified.

The President said that Hon. W. W. Page had expressed a wish to address the Convention.

Mr Page accepted an invitation to speak, and said that he was proud to signify his indorsement of the platform. There was one resolution upon which he had not expressed an opinion in his speech last evening. He alluded to that in which the Patrons of Husbandry were indorsed. He loved the Grangers, was himself a Granger, carried a corn cob in his pocket, and wooed the Patrons of Husbandry like all good Democrats of this day. Mr Page was much pleased with his remarks.

Mr Townsend, of Polk, announced that the delegations from Polk and Benton counties had agreed upon B. F. Burch for Joint Senator from those two counties. This nomination was also ratified. Everything was ratified.

DEMOCRATIC STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE.

The State Central Committee is thus constituted:

Baker, John Bratton; Benton, D. Carlisle; Columbia, S. A. Miles; Coos, James Aiken; Clatsop, A. VanDusen; Curry, Plummer [illegible]; Clackamas, W. H. Vaughn; Douglas, Aaron Rose; Grant, W. B. Laswell; Jackson, H. Klippel; Josephine, F. F. Tolin; Linn, N. Royce; Lane, John M. Thompson; Marion, John F. Miller; Multnomah, Eugene Semple; Polk, D. J. Holmes; Union, J. H. Slater; Umatilla, J. L. Story; Wasco, J. M. Paxton; Washington, E. Chinette; Yamhill, W. T. Newby; Tillamook, W. H. Fawcett.

Mr Noltner was on his feet as soon as the last name had been read, to move that Hon. J. H. Slater be elected Chairman of the State Central Committee. There was a mare's nest in this unobtrusive little motion and it was speedily disclosed by Ben Hayden, who rose to a point of order. Although the point was not stated the majority of the delegates seemed to understand that there ought to be one, and as Mr Noltner did not insist on his motion the matter was dropped.

Mr White offered a resolution providing that the next Democratic State Convention be held in Salem, as the capital of the State was the fittest place for holding all conventions of a political character.

The motion drew out considerable hostile feeling, but was finally laid on the table for the present.

Ben Hayden moved that the Convention elect a Chairman of the State Central Committee. The ayes and noes were demanded and had on this motion. As there were comparatively few delegates present the roll call was soon concluded, and the motion prevailed.

Ben Hayden nominated H. Klippel of Jackson county, and Andy Shuck nominated W. T. Newby of Yamhill county.

Col. N. H. Gates offered the following resolution which was laid on the table:

Resolved, That General Jeff C. Davis and the soldiers under his command are entitled to the thanks of the people of this State for their vigorous campaign against the Modoc Indians who murdered the innocent settlers on the frontier of our State.

Mr White's resolution providing for the place of meeting of the next Democratic Convention, was taken from the table. A warm discussion began and was in progress when your reporter left the hall to catch the approaching train.

It was whispered about just before your reporter left that John F. Miller, W. H. Watkinds, J. B. McClain, Ben Hayden, Eugene Semple, R. J. Ladd, Ben Norden and a few others, together with the nominees, would hold a ratification meeting this afternoon.

One of the delegates, whose throat had been cut early in the session, alluded to the proposed meeting as a Democratic Wake. Who shall say that he erred?

DISSATISFACTION WITH THE TICKET

nominated by the Convention is wide spread and openly expressed. Many prominent delegates declare that there is too much dead weight, and that success in June is altogether improbable. This Albany Convention, which had the appearance of a perfectly harmonious concern, was in truth a most discordant assemblage of men. The inside caucuses were scenes of angry discussion and violent wranglings. None of these were suffered to appear in the public proceedings. One thing is certain, the Albany Democratic Convention will prove quite as disastrous to the Democratic party as was the Albany Republican Convention of [illegible] to the Republican party in this State. We shall see what we shall see.

ERRORS CORRECTED.

Your reporter has noticed an error of some importance which crept into the report of yesterday's proceedings. The printed platform purports to give that document as reported by the Committee on Resolutions, and in the tenth resolution is found this declaration:

"That we are in favor of the litigant act."

This is about as incorrect as could well be. The platform as reported by the Committee contained a resolution declaring in effect that the present rates of litigant organs should be reduced to ordinary advertising rates. Mr D. J. Holmes, of Polk, moved the adoption of this amendment:

Resolved, That we are in favor of the repeal of the litigant act.

This amendment was incorporated in the platform by a vote of ayes 45, nays 42. The error doubtless resulted from leaving out the words "the repeal of."

Another error which verges on the ludicrous. Your report reads in another place:

"Ben Hayden submitted the following amendment to the platform:

Resolved, That we are in favor of free trade, and direct taxation and plain talk on the litigant act."

All of that part following the words "direct taxation" has no connection with the resolution offered by Mr Hayden. When Mr Holmes offered his resolution favoring the repeal of the litigant act your reporter wrote as a sub-head to indicate the nature of the proceedings, "Plain Talk on the Litigant Act." That's all.

A Mr Karby, of McMinnville, lost a fine Cotswold ewe last week. She cost him $150.

FRIDAY MORNING MARCH 20 1874

GOV GROVER'S STRUGGLES AND HIS OLD FRIENDS

When the Democratic Convention at Albany was ready to proceed to the nomination of a candidate for Governor Mr Fitch, of Lane county moved that all candidates be required if present, to announce their position on the platform adopted. Governor Grover who was a candidate for renomination, was thereupon introduced, and spoke as follows

> Mr Chairman and gentlemen of the Convention —You are not in any temper to listen to a speech nor are you here now to engage in any such business I wish to say only that I recognize in all the resolutions the sentiments of the Democratic party. I recognize in those resolutions the principles for which I have fought and struggled for twenty three years in the State of Oregon and there is not an element in those resolutions which I do not recognize as an old friend for which I have fought and will continue to fight

That sounds well, certainly. When a man will "struggle for 23 years unfalteringly for the triumph of a given set of principles, his soundness should never be called in question by those who also desire their triumph. Nor is it to be wondered at that "there is not an element in those resolutions which" His Excellency does not "recognize as an old friend" considering this twenty-three years struggle" One is likely to become pretty intimately acquainted with a subject by the time he has "struggled" with it and for it for twenty-three years.

It must be confessed, however that it has not always been plain to the natural eye that all these "elements" were the intimate friends of His Excellency, or at any rate that His Excellency was their most devoted friend. The "struggles" in which he has been engaged at divers times within the period of twenty-three years, has sometimes even appeared to be for the triumph of principles exactly the reverse of some that are laid down in this Democratic platform. Doubtless this has been in appearance only, for His Excellency ought to know best what he has in reality "struggled" for. It is not the first time appearances have been deceptive as to the real object of "struggling" Pope relates, in "January and May," a touching instance of this sort of misconstruction, wherein a person who struggled hard with a man up among the branches of an apple tree, for the laudable and unselfish purpose of restoring sight to a certain blind individual, and who, though successful in opening the eyes of the blind, was for a time suspected of having struggled for an entirely different object. But in that case, if we recollect the story aright, explanation and reflection brought the doubting mind to better views, and the same may be the case with those who have not seen Governor Grover's past struggles in their true light.

With these prefatory remarks, which we make for the sole purpose of preventing our readers from forming a harsh and unreasonable judgment in regard to the apparent difference between Governor Grover's past "struggles" and what he now declares to have been the object of them, we propose to institute a brief comparison between his past official acts and his present declaration.

In 1870 he approved the act commonly known as the "Litigant Law," of the nature of which all our readers are informed. This looks hardly consistent with the following resolution, which is one of the "old friends"

> Resolved, That we are in favor of the repeal of the Litigant Act.

In 1872—only so long ago as the last Legislature—an act was passed, and received the vitalizing signature of His Excellency, which raised the fees of Clerks and Sheriffs (already too high) to the present enormous rates. It is difficult to perceive just how, in approving that act, His Excellency was "struggling" for the principle enunciated in the following which is one of the "old friends" which His Excellency meets in the Albany platform:

> That the act relating to the fees of Sheriffs and Clerks ought to be so amended, either by making such offices salaried, or by so reducing the fees now attached to the same, as shall make the compensation received by such officers a fair remuneration and nothing more for the services required of them.

It is difficult, we repeat, to reconcile ourself to the idea that His Excellency's approval of the law which makes clerks and sheriffs lawful extortioners, was a "struggle" for reduction of the fees of these officers, but we do not say it is impossible that such was indeed the true nature of the struggle, for the Governor at once recognized this "element" in the Albany platform as an "old friend," and when could he have made its acquaintance, except during that memorable "struggle"

It is unfortunate that the outward seeming of His Excellency's struggles in political matters should be so radically inconsistent to their real character. A good many people will persist in misunderstanding him. A good many will doubt the accuracy of his memory when he speaks of twenty-three, or even of one or two, years ago. And some will whisper it around that His Excellency is endeavoring to secure votes by a species of demagoguery that is entirely too thin to succeed. In short if His Excellency expects the people to forget the past and accept as final his declaration of a purpose to reform the public service in the interests of economy he will see his mistake in June when the votes are counted and the Independent candidate, who will be nominated on the 15th of April is found to have been chosen the Governor of Oregon.

We can't see why the Democrats who failed to get nominations for themselves or their friends at the Albany Convention should be feeling so very sore over it. The candidates who were nominated would have been in luck if they had been defeated. They will be at all the trouble and expense of the campaign, to see themselves beaten at the polls. We don't know of any set of people who have so bright a prospect of being cleaned out to the bedrock on the 18th day of June except the Ring Republicans. This is the off year in politics and the people are going to improve the time to secure some of those reforms which are demanded for their material prosperity.

Think of the Portland Bulletin calling other papers [illegible] sheets. Satan rebuking sin

GUILTY, BUT LET 'EM PROVE IT

There is an old familiar anecdote of a man who was indicted for stealing his neighbor's sheep and who, when arraigned and asked to answer guilty or not guilty, convulsed the entire court by replying "Why, I am guilty of course, Judge, or I wouldn't be in this pickle now, but let 'em prove it if they can." That ludicrous scene is re-enacted, the defendant being the "associated editorship" of the Bulletin. As will be remembered we propounded to the said "associated editorship" certain rather pointed interrogatories touching the considerations that influenced his course of action when he was advocating at the last Legislature the passage of the act to purchase the Canal and Locks at the Falls. One of these questions was as to how much he was to be paid for advocating the bill and how it was to be paid. We had not the slightest idea he would deny that he was working for a bribe, but we as little expected he would admit that he was. But he allowed himself to write his reply in the midst of a towering rage and of course allowed his feelings to get the better of his discretion as all persons do who write while angry. Without answering the questions directly he says we know all about the facts and the witnesses, and could show up the matter just as well without shooting such disagreeable interrogatories at him. "Guilty, but let 'em prove it." Well, the admissions of the defendant are held good evidence in the Courts, and we have taken the short road and proved the case by the defendant's clearly implied admission. We have made shorter work of Scott than we expected, for we supposed he would be silent as he was when Pengra went after him about the corruption fund.

But we venture the assertion that the "associated editorship" would give several dollars of Custom House stealings if he could recall the article in which this admission of his venality is made, for in addition to the damaging admission itself the article, which is considerably over a column in length, contains nothing but a string of such vile epithets, applied to various public men, as a man mad with rage may write, but no man of decent instinct, when "clothed and in his right mind," would wish to be responsible for. Such choice names as "hounds," "ingrates," "blackguards," "vile curs," and the like, are the staple of the performance, and occur in almost every line. We have no disposition to imitate this style of journalism, and if we were not restrained by self respect from doing so, we certainly should be by respect for our readers. We only refer to it to show what sort of journalism may be expected of a man who confesses to the taking of bribes.

SUDDEN AND UNEXPECTED DEATH

On Tuesday the 17th inst at 11 45 A M as the Walla Walla and Dalles stage was coming down and when it was about 23 miles above the Dalles a passenger by the name of Daniel J Spencer died suddenly. The cause of his death as nearly as could be ascertained was inflammation and ulceration of the bowels.

The deceased had in his possession a certificate of membership in the Order of Odd Fellows. On information being given to the Order at the Dalles the members immediately made preparation to take charge of the remains. We learn the particulars from Dr H M Stuart who was a fellow passenger with the deceased.

We learn from a reliable source that the prospects of the independent movement up the valley grow brighter and brighter every day. It is foregone that the reform ticket will be triumphant in most of the interior counties, unless some great revulsion of popular sentiment should take place before the day of election, and there is no probability that such will be the case. At present the sentiment in favor of independent political action appears to be spreading and growing more and more intense every day. In some sections of the State there is practically nothing left of the old party organizations, so far as the present campaign is concerned.

Mr Holladay doesn't control either Custom House or newspaper, or anything else so far as we are aware but his own business.—Bulletin

This is a mere quibble. We did not intimate that Mr. Holladay controlled anything but his own business. We did not mention anything that he controls except the Custom House and the Bulletin and they are certainly his own business. [illegible] ownership of the Collector of Customs and of the whole Bulletin establishment, Associated Editorship and all, can make them his own business.

The Bulletin says we are a blackguard. We must be the lowest blackguard in the world if we have got so low that that paper can speak of us in such terms with propriety.

CITY.

BANK CAVED MAN KILLED. Intelligence reached the city late last evening of the killing of a man named Ira McCarthy at a point below the city [illegible] known as [illegible] Bank. McCarthy [illegible] was engaged in shoveling sand from [illegible] the bank and while at work [illegible] which was [illegible] McCarthy [illegible] weight [illegible] He shouted at the top of his voice McCarthy [illegible] to run for his life. No response was received [illegible] and the man [illegible] up the steep bank as rapidly [illegible] he perceived that McCarthy was buried. He seized a shovel and began digging with all his might where he supposed his comrade was lying [illegible] As rapidly as possible the body was extracted but life was extinct. He had evidently never known what struck him as his [illegible] was crushed [illegible] The news was brought up [illegible] the remains to Portland but the friends of the deceased concluded that it would be better to have the Coroner go down and hold the inquest. We learn that the little steamer [illegible] was chartered and Coroner Dryer will probably proceed down the river at an early hour this morning and the inquest be held. McCarthy was aged about 35 years. He was an industrious steady fellow and well liked. We learn that he has a wife and several children in the States.

A MYSTERY PROBABLY SOLVED. The Salem [illegible] says: About the time of the discovery of the body which was found in the slough at Sauvie's Island not long since, John Huff a resident of this place familiarly known by the title of Major, left here for Portland going away on Thursday and expecting to return the Saturday following. Since that time he has neither been seen nor heard of, and judging from the description of the [illegible] and other articles found upon the corpse as given in the Portland [illegible] Huff's friends [illegible] fear it was his body that was found. In addition to the above we were shown a letter yesterday written by a gentleman at Salem in relation to the same subject. The writer says that the friends of Mr. Huff are strongly of the opinion that he had on his person the articles spoken of at the time—an ivory toothpick a bunch of keys and various small copper coins attached to the ring. [illegible] Huff known to have had in his possession a small pocket pistol—a [illegible] patent. The letter stated that the friends of Huff were very anxious to see the articles mentioned, for they are confident that they would be able to identify them without difficulty. To this end they desire that the Coroner should forward the same to them for inspection. Huff is known to have had about $300 in coin at the time he left Salem. It is conjectured—and the supposition is not at all unreasonable—that Huff came to Portland and was inveigled into some den and robbed. He intended to start for the States soon and the loss of all the money he had in the world drove him to desperation and finally to seek oblivion in suicide.

GEN CANBY'S PORTRAIT RECEIVED.—Readers have not forgotten the elegant portrait of the late beloved Gen E. R. S. Canby, from the artistic brush of Mr Howard Campion of this city which was purchased by subscription raised by the generous citizens of Portland and presented to the noble widow of the lamented dead. Last winter the portrait which had been kept on exhibition at Gray's Music Store, was forwarded by express to Mrs Canby at Indianapolis. Accompanying the portrait was a letter tendering the present as a free will offering from the citizens of Portland and desiring her to accept it as a substantial token of the high esteem in which the sacred memory of her dead husband and herself were held. Mr Geo F Grant a short time since received a letter from Mrs Canby. The portrait had reached its destination in safety. The letter contained the sincere and heartfelt thanks of the writer for the beautiful and enduring token. She desired to express the most profound sense of obligation for the [illegible] spoke in warm terms of eulogy of the [illegible] and faithful adherence on the part of the artist to the subject and complimented the elegance with which the work was executed. Towards the generous people of Portland the writer concluded by saying she should ever cherish the warmest emotions of [illegible] and sympathy.

GALLANTRY REWARDED.—The following [illegible] copy of a letter received at [illegible] Major H [illegible] Wool A A General [illegible] Capt [illegible] Smith of Fort [illegible] The letter is dated [illegible] says [illegible] the 1st inst a boat was [illegible] French [illegible] without a [illegible] among the breakers [illegible] within two miles [illegible] until the [illegible] the crew [illegible] be taken off [illegible] ters were [illegible] from the wheel [illegible] [illegible] Department Command [illegible] deserved recognition [illegible] gallantry thus [illegible] has been received from the [illegible]

CITY.

BANK CAVED—MAN KILLED—Intelligence reached the city late last evening of the killing of a man named Jas McCarthy at a point below the city about four miles distant at what is known as Caples Bank McCarthy it seems, was engaged in shovelling sand from the bank and wheeling it down into a scow which was moored below The fatal accident occurred yesterday about 1 o clock The unfortunate man had just returned from his dinner and was commencing his afternoon labor For nearly 40 feet above where he was engaged at work the bank rose perpendicularly In a very thoughtless manner McCarthy continued to work away While so employed, a huge mass of earth became loosened at the top of the bank and descended with tremendous weight A partner of McCarthy who was engaged at the moment on the scow perceived to his consternation that the bank was caving He shouted at the top of his voice to McCarthy to run for his life No response was received and the man ran up the steep bank as rapidly as his strength would permit To his horror he perceived that McCarthy was buried He seized a shovel and began digging with all his might, where he supposed his comrade was lying About fifteen minutes delving and he came on to McCarthy As rapidly as possible the body was extricated but life was extinct He had evidently never known what struck him, as his body was crushed badly The news was brought up by the Mountaineer last evening At first it was intended to bring the remains to Portland but the friends of the deceased concluded that it would be better to have the Coroner go down and hold the inquest. We learn that the little steamer Henrietta was chartered and Coroner Dyer will probably proceed down the river at an early hour this morning and the inquest be held McCarthy was aged about 35 years He was an industrious, steady fellow and well liked We learn that he has a wife and several children in the States

A MYSTERY PROBABLY SOLVED—The State man says About the time of the discovery of the body which was found in the slough at Sauvie's Island, not long since John Huff a resident of this place, familiarly known by the title of Major, left here for Portland, going away on Thursday, and expecting to return the Saturday following Since that time he has neither been seen nor heard of and judging from the description of the pistol and other articles found upon the corpse, as given by the Portland dailies Huff's friends here fear it was his body that was found In addition to the above, we were shown a letter yesterday written by a gentleman at Salem in relation to the same subject The writer says that the friends of Mr Huff are strongly of the opinion that he had on his person the articles spoken of at the time—an ivory toothpick a bunch of keys and various small copper coins attached to the ring Especially is Huff known to have had in his possession a small pocket pistol—a Southerner patent The letter stated that the friends of Huff were very anxious to see the articles mentioned for they are confident that they would be able to identify them without difficulty To this end they desire that the Coroner should forward the same to them for inspection Huff is known to have had about $200 in coin at the time he left Salem It is conjectured—and the supposition is not at all unreasonable—that Huff came to Portland and was inveigled into some den and robbed. He intended to start for the States soon, and the loss of all the money he had in the world drove him to desperation and finally to seek oblivion in suicide

GEN CANBY'S PORTRAIT RECEIVED—Readers have not forgotten the elegant portrait of the late beloved Gen Ed R S Canby, from the artistic brush of Mr Howard Campion, of this city, which was purchased by subscription raised by the generous citizens of Portland and presented to the noble widow of the lamented dead Last winter the portrait which had been kept on exhibition at Gray's Music Store, was forwarded by express to Mrs Canby, at Indianapolis Accompanying the portrait was a letter tendering the present as a free will offering from the citizens of Portland, and desiring her to accept it as a substantial token of the high esteem in which the sacred memory of her dead husband and herself were held Mr Geo F Grant, a short time since received a letter from Mrs Canby The portrait had reached its destination in safety The letter contained the sincere and heartfelt thanks of the writer for the beautiful and enduring token She desired to express the most profound sense of obligation for the present spoke in warm terms of eulogy of the true and faithful adherence on the part of the artiste to the subject, and commended the elegance with which the work was executed Towards the generous people of Portland the writer concluded by saying she should ever cherish the warmest emotions of friendship and sympathy.

GALLANTRY REWARDED—The following is a copy of a letter received at headquarters by Major H. Clay Wood, A A General from Capt Frank G Smith, of Fort Cape Disappointment The letter is dated March 5th and says "On the 1st inst a brig [it was the French brig Sidi—REP] coming into the river without a pilot, stuck among the breakers on the middle sands within two miles of the p and it was not until the following day that the crew could be taken off As soon as her critical condition was discovered volunteers were called for from the whole garrison—prisoners and all—to man the life boat belonging to the light house establishment here Under this call prisoners Lawrence Abbott Melody and Confer stepped promptly to the front Though it was not found necessary to launch the boat I think it right to mention the names of these men as deserving the favorable notice of the Department Commander As a proper and deserved recognition of such meritorious gallantry thirty days imprisonment has been revoked from the sentence of each of these soldiers

OUT ALL NIGHT!—This is the title of a new oil painting just from the artistic brush of Major W H. Bell, and is on exhibition at the show window of Geo A Steel & Co The painting is quite a study of itself and illustrates a good moral which every truant husband ought never to overlook or neglect Should those husbands who remain out to unseasonable hours of the night on the slender pretext, when called upon to explain the situation to indignant wives of having pressing business, study Out All Night! they will have a salutary lesson of its most natural results The artist has succeeded admirably in working up the scene in all its details It is one of the most clever productions which we have yet seen from Major Bell's brush

SEVERELY INJURED—Yesterday Mr J D Eaton while engaged at work on Flanders wharf assisting in loading the ship Lady Blessing met with a severe accident A sack of wheat which was started at the top of the chute struck some obstacle on the way down and was thrown off Unfortunately just at the moment Mr Eaton happened to be standing on the lower wharf immediately below The sack descended and struck him at the base of the neck between the shoulders The force of the blow knocked Mr Eaton senseless for a moment and he partly lost his power [illegible] He was removed to his house at [illegible] and a physician summoned Although severely injured [illegible] little [illegible]

THE MASQUERADE—The Skating Rink was well filled with people last evening who were drawn thither by the attractions of the Masquerade Carnival Some sixty masqueraders appeared on the floor As our space will not permit we are obliged to omit the list of names Notwithstanding the fact that several masquerades have taken place during the past few months the exhibition of costumes was very good Quite a number of ladies were among the number of costumers and many were dressed elaborately Very few new and original impersonations were given though Those taking part deserve credit for the pains taken in dressing The season at the Rink has been successful in every way

NARROW ESCAPE—We learn by an exchange that Dr J W Murray of Portland I N Peterson and Mr John Hunter of the Bay View House met with an exciting incident at Skinner's Butte on the weather beach between Unity and Oysterville last week In attempting to round the Butte while the surf was out they were not quick enough and wagon team men and all were hid from sight for a moment and were only saved by the noble horses holding on and pulling for dear life Mr Peterson had left the wagon to walk around the spot and he says that Dr Murray's hat only was to be seen from the Butte

SOCIABLE—The Unitarian Society held a pleasant sociable at Mr S G Reed's residence last evening The parlors were thronged Home plays dancing and social intercourse were the order of the evening in which all participated with great spirit A substantial repast formed an interesting feature The assembly adjourned at a seasonable hour well pleased with the entertainment

IN AN INSANE ASYLUM

Many of our readers in Washington Territory are acquainted doubtless with Colonel B S Pardee He figured in the Courts of Washington City last year when he was charged with levying blackmail on postmasters and forging the name of Gen O F Babcock At that time he assumed under the alias of Rev J Hale Barney The Washington Chronicle prints the following letter from his father

NEW HAVEN February 16 1874

Colonel B S Pardee is in the Hospital for the insane in this State where he has been since September last with but small prospect of his recovery His malady has been of long standing, although a person not previously acquainted with him would not discover that his mind was disordered in any ordinary intercourse with him The physician in charge at the hospital prefers to have him receive no letter and to hold no correspondence with any one whereby past events and occurrences in his life may be kept in mind and accordingly I have not written to or seen him since he was placed in the hospital

LEAD PIPES AND WATER SUPPLY—The question whether water is poisoned by flowing through lead pipes was lately discussed in the French Academy of Sciences with results that are calculated to quiet the apprehensions of those who get their water supply through such pipes M Dumas stated that in his chemical lectures he had long been accustomed to employ a very simple experiment for the purpose of showing that water corrodes lead only under special conditions He takes distilled water rain water spring water river water etc and drops into each pieces of lead It is found that only the distilled water acts on the lead the salts of lime in the rest of the specimens preventing the reaction M Belgrand read to the Academy a memoir giving the results of his investigations into this subject The ancient Romans employed lead water pipes on a large scale, but yet no Latin medical writer says anything of lead poisoning produced by the water According to M Belgrand one sixth of a grain of calcareous salts to the quart prevents the dissolution of the lead He exhibited to the Academy pieces of lead pipes which had been in service from the time of Louis XIV without showing any sign of corrosion and analysis of water that has passed through a long line of lead pipes showed the complete absence of lead—Galaxy for March

The Rev Mr Copeland was seen in Maquoketa Iowa a few days ago A detective was hot after him He had the detective said seduced and eloped with the wife and two children of a man of wealth and prominence in Canada who was determined to bring him to justice He also said that he was strongly suspected of being implicated in a cold blooded murder committed in the same neighborhood just before the elopement

The farmers of Yamhill are plowing at a large average per day They report the ground in excellent order

Since the closing of the public schools in Salem a large number of private schools have opened in that city

Vint Snelling of McMinnville struck the back of his hand with the edge of an ax the other day and was quite badly hurt

The Astoria school district contains 1 [illegible] males and [illegible] persons of school age The average attendance on the public school is [illegible] The expense of the school for the year was $2 100

Judge Upton has decided in the case of the State of Oregon vs Charles Stevens H D Clark that there is no equality [illegible] Justice of the Peace in Astoria [illegible] The case has been appealed by defendant [illegible]

The Astorian says [illegible] [illegible] Ireland and [illegible]

At the annual election of McMinnville Hook and Ladder Company held Monday evening March 10th, the following were elected officers to serve the ensuing year Foreman M B Spencer Assistant Foreman [illegible] President C J Handley Secretary Geo W Jones Treasurer H V V Johnson

Quite extensive preparations are going on at the mouth of Rogue river for putting up salmon Messrs Lovelace Griffin & Co are preparing to put up a large quantity in cans This is a new firm one of the members being recently from Iowa Riley & Stewart who perhaps own the best fishery on the Pacific Coast are equally busy and are extending their operations as fast as possible

The yacht Cheerful built at Cape Disappointment for the United States made her first visit to Astoria one day last week manned by Lieutenant Jones and Messrs Munson and Allen The Astorian says the sloop is a trim-built and finely modeled craft reflecting credit on her builder Mr Munson who has constructed several fast boats for the waters of the Columbia and surrounding bays

Mr Rawson who moved over to Tillamook some months since met with a considerable misfortune a few weeks ago He took some thirty head of cattle to graze on the tide lands over there and not understanding the regulations of the tide twenty of the cattle were caught in its flow and drowned The cattle which are raised there are said to understand the order of things in regard to the operation of the water and are never caught.

In the proceedings of the Circuit Court at Salem we find the following Clarke vs Crandall replevin In this case the complaint having failed to properly state the right of plaintiff he was virtually nonsuited and the action proceeded only as to the question of damages to be allowed defendant and the verdict of the jury was for return of the property without damages We believe this was an action concerning the Statesman office

The McMinnville Reporter of Thursday, says During the week the ladies have continued their temperance warfare against the saloon having varied their exercises somewhat by making calls during the daytime besides making visits in the evening Their modus operandi has been something in this way One lady would step into the saloon and inquire if her husband was there After awhile another would step in and ask if her husband was in there and so on making their calls so abruptly that it was an unpleasant venture for a man to stay in the saloon if he felt particular about having the ladies see him there This has been practiced every day very much to the discomfiture of the saloon folks until yesterday they stepped up to go into the door when they were refused admittance

A correspondent of the Statesman writing from Curry county says Our people are considerably excited over the prospect of the speedy development of our mining interests The old beach is being discovered in various places at an altitude of sixty feet above the level of the sea and from one to three miles back from the present shore line The old beach is rich with gold which being coated with rust that is generated in the black sand has been almost impossible to save A party of skillful miners are now here testing a new machine which they have invented that easily saves all the gold without quicksilver, rough sluices or any of the old or intricate contrivances Their machine will revolutionize beach mining also the process of saving gold now in use in quartz mills "

On Saturday Mr Ekstein was violently assaulted and knocked down by an Indian to whom he had refused spirits The North Saanich Indians have become very bold and saucy lately and say that they have been wronged by the whites and that they will have redress

Barks Eagle, [illegible] and M [illegible] arrived at Seattle this week The two first will load there and the other will go to Utsalady

FRIDAY MORNING MARCH 20, 1874

THE PALOUSE COUNTRY

COLFAX W T March 7, 1874

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Noticing a communication in your weekly of Feb 28th from one T W Clark dated Palouse Whitman county W T Feb 9 1874 which is calculated to give a wrong impression of the soil and climate of this country I have thought best to make some statements through your paper of [illegible] which I am personally acquainted

I arrived in this country last harvest and was surprised to find this the finest country for raising grain I had ever seen Such heavy crops of wheat, oats barley and rye do not grow even in the famous valley of the Willamette and they were not confined to the little valleys and creek bottoms but were everywhere and more especially on the hills on which is not found the yellow clay spoken of by Mr Clark except underneath the soil, which is a dark loam and very rich and productive The clay which underlies the soil prevents the drouths that in other localities make irrigation necessary Last season many farmers here raised over fifty bushels of wheat to the acre on hill land (which Mr Clark says has not been tested for grain and vegetables much) The finest vegetables and grain are raised on hill land

The thermometer has at no time indicated lower than ten degrees below zero and that but once during this unusually cold winter As to the summer frosts spoken of by Mr Clark I personally know nothing further than this that vegetables are plenty of all descriptions so plenty in fact that there is no sale for them

Money is not so plenty here as desirable and for several reasons The first settlers here brought stock, by which they expected to realize, as heretofore large profits Stock is now very low, and no sale except at such prices that owners are not willing to sell Add to this the fact that there was, until recently no mill in this county and residents were compelled to go to Walla Walla or some other point away from this country for not only their groceries, clothing farming implements, etc., but even their flour and thus all the money, or nearly all, was taken away As no grain has been shipped from this county there has never been a surplus until the last season, and no boats have been up Snake river to our landing (Penawawa) since harvest but when boats come up this spring shipments will be made to Portland of both grain and flour, and as flour will now be as cheap and plenty here as in Walla Walla no more money will be taken away for that article As Mr Clark truly says people here are not blessed with a superabundance of money, and it is also true that the high freights on the Columbia and Snake rivers are quite a drawback However, this last, i e high freights is not peculiar to this country alone but is common to all new countries before regular competing lines of communication are opened We hope by having Snake river improved that steamboats can reach even Lewiston some nine months in the year and whenever by canal and locks the great thoroughfare (Columbia river) be made free to all, that we will be almost as near market as many sections not now so remote.

The people of this section would rejoice to see a large immigration of the right kind this spring not for the opportunity to sell out but because they have resolved to make this country their homes, and they wish the country settled up so they can have schools and churches, and all the conveniences of older settled countries And right here let me say that there is a section of country here perhaps embracing within its limits ten thousand square miles not equalled in fertility of soil by any country I have ever seen, not heavy timbered land that has to be cleared before it can be cultivated, but mostly open prairie ready for the plow, with timber of good quality within reasonable distance, well watered by springs and creeks, and now open for settlement

The winters here are colder than in the Willamette Valley and liable to be more snowy, but there is not so much rain Colfax, the county seat of Whitman county is situated in the Forks of Palouse, near the center of the fertile country alluded to The first house erected here was in the summer of 1872; there is now a school house, gristmill, sawmill, hotel, livery stable, blacksmith shop, cabinet shop, boot and shoe shop and store, besides numerous dwellings but no doggery and none wanted A good school is kept up continuously and is well patronized Many of the settlers here came direct from the Eastern States, and a large immigration is looked for the coming summer

And now, in conclusion, let me say with Mr Clark, come and see for yourselves, and you will be convinced Appended I send a record of the weather kept here this winter, since the 1st of December, by H Morrison, formerly of Marion county, Oregon Our winter weather has all been since that date If you think this of sufficient interest, please publish Respectfully yours

THE TAXATION OF CHURCH PROPERTY

It is to be said to the credit of our clergy that the majority of them are not opposed to the taxation of the churches if the pressure is let on easy There is really no argument which will justify the exemption of any new churches from taxation Neither is there justification for the exemption of the old ones only some ground for mercy The religious press also is not disposed to favor the existing practice The Congregationalist, in discussing the question of exemption falls into the singular error of supposing the railroads to be exempt, whereas they pay taxes on certain real estate in the several towns and cities and a large corporation tax to the State We should not be surprised to see some valuable results even to the churches themselves In some places, there are too many churches for the population, each leading a starveling and semi-moribund life simply because the worshipers are too sectarian and hard shelled to come together and unite Taxation will kill off a good many poor churches the continued existence of which is a great waste of means and a real obstacle to religious prosperity It will also constitute a needed check on the splitting of churches and sects We do not believe that taxation will close the doors or prevent the erection of any church for which there is a real need —Springfield Republican

FEES TO COLLECTORS &c —The Secretary of the Treasury will on Tuesday, transmit to the Senate a response to its resolution calling for the amount of fees paid to collectors, naval officers surveyors informers and other custom house officers during the last ten years at the different ports in the United States The clerks of the Customs Bureau have been at work preparing the statement about two months and the information furnished will make a very voluminous document The cost of preparing the information foots up to about $4,000 —Washington Chronicle

OBSTRUCTIONS IN SAN FRANCISCO HARBOR.—A Washington dispatch of March 10th says "Alexander of the Engineer Corps, has reported that it will cost about $25 000 to remove the wreck of the Patrician at the entrance of San Francisco Bay He recommends full survey and examination before the removal of the Noonday is ordered."

The late San Francisco papers state that receipts of Oregon apples in that market are more or less flavored with the pine boxes in which they are packed—a circumstance which injures their sale

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—The transactions reported are limited to small lots heretofore held by speculators who have come to the conclusion that the prospects for any advance before harvest and a few hundred centals purchased of farmers the majority of holders being still unwilling to sell at exporter's rates which in no case are above $1 70 while the usual offer is $1 65 per cental

FLOUR—The stocks on hand here are slightly increased within the past week owing to a lack of shipping but rates are without important change We quote best brands extra $6 per barrel good outside brands $5 50 superfine $4 75@5 fine $4 00

OATS—The receipts are not large compared with the surplus said to be yet held in the interior Fluctuation which has been rife in the San Francisco market has affected ours but little and we renew our quotations of firm at 50 per bushel We are inclined to believe that considerable stocks will be carried over into next year and that with fair crops our supply the coming fall will be unusually large

BARLEY—It is thought here that no imports will be needed to supply local wants if further shipments hence are not made The home demand however will consume the surplus now in the State A few lots have sold at $1 15 per cwt, which is the quotation for good to-day

FEED—Stocks are ample at $14 ℔ ton for bran, $12 @14 for shorts and $25@30 00 for chop middlings etc The approach of spring is likely to depress prices in a few weeks But few shipments are made

HAY—The market is fairly supplied at slightly reduced rates For good baled timothy we quote at $14 ℔ ton loose d[illegible] $12 20@13

POTATOES—Receipts have begun to fall off and trade is less active though there is yet some demand for shipment to San Francisco The best varieties are readily placed at 50 cents per bushel with chances of an advance while inferior lots range from 40@45 cents

ONIONS—The recent receipts appear not to have been well stored during the winter and are soft and sprouty in many instances Such must suffer reduction on current rates for best which are $1 [illegible] per 100 pounds

APPLES—Occasionally some very fair lots reach the market but they are retail taken [illegible] home consumption or shipping Inferior and specked varieties are in full supply and are placed with more difficulty The range of the market is $1 [illegible] ℔ box

DRIED FRUIT—The demand [illegible] more [illegible] supply the coast trade [illegible] lots of apples are quoted [illegible] in sacks Plums with pits are weak at [illegible] pitless 15@[illegible]

BACON—We quote country cured and well trimmed sides at 10@11 cents ℔ ℔ Shoulders [illegible] Hams 15@18c These rates are for such as have been thoroughly smoked and some lots badly cured have been sold at [illegible] cents ℔ ℔ less The receipts for some days past have been light

LARD—The receipts have again slightly increased though earlier in the week a choice article in kegs was in good demand Present quotations are 10@[illegible] cents ℔ ℔ in kegs and 12@[illegible]c in 10lb tins

BUTTER—A common article is plentiful at prices ranging from 15@[illegible] cents ℔ ℔ while a first rate article is quotable at 30c and receipts of California butter by last steamer sold for 40@42½c ℔ ℔ while Oregon butter is quoted in the San Francisco market at 22½c ℔ ℔—an anomalous condition in the two markets which reflects no credit on our State

CHEESE—Oregon made is scarce and commands an advance on quotations last given Receipts are now held at 18@20c ℔ ℔

EGGS—The market is overstocked and as we intimated last week, prices which can be secured for large lots have dropped to 15 cents ℔ dozen The condition of recent receipts is an improvement on those earlier in the season

CHICKENS—There is a very fair demand and good lots now readily sell at $4 00 ℔ dozen while choice are held at $4 50 The supply is small

BEEF CATTLE—The heavy loss of cattle east of the Cascades whence we draw large supplies in the fall each year together with the poor condition in which many herds in that section have come through winter lead to some anxiety as to future prices but as yet our market is without important advance We quote choice young steers at [illegible] cents ℔ ℔ and inferior lots at 4@5c

DRESSED HOGS—The receipts are light and prices nominally 6@7c ℔ ℔ though some butchers to supply immediate want have paid [illegible]

MUTTON SHEEP—The arrivals are limited and fair conditioned lots are in good demand at $3 00 ℔ head

TALLOW—The quotable price is $5 00@[illegible] ℔ 100 pounds.

HIDES—We notice quite large shipments by each outgoing steamer for San Francisco and buyers take all offering at 6@7c ℔ ℔ for green [illegible] for green salted and 14@16c for dry if undamaged.

WOOL—Transactions at present are only of small lots purchased by agents of State mills Prices are unchanged from our last report The few fleeces of the spring clip offered in the San Francisco market and reported by telegraph sold at a lower figure than was expected but an hardly be counted as establishing spring prices for the season

THE TERRITORIES

H W Stanton has been elected Mayor of Lewiston [illegible] Recorder, W P Hunt Treasurer and [illegible] Marshal

John Lear from Horse Shoe Bend, tells the Idaho World that a good many [illegible] dying in that section, and that stock of all kind look poor and bad

The upper town of Tacoma is looking better at this time than ever before, and its people undoubtedly more prosperous and more cheerful than for many previous months

Charley Young, of Lewiston is afflicted with a harmless sort of insanity during his of which he imagines that he owns all creation He says he had eighty millions in a London Bank which burst up recently

There are over 5 000 mines and prospects within a circuit of twenty five miles of Salt Lake The most of these will be actively worked this season and millions of dollars will be added to the wealth of the Territory

The Bozeman Courier learns that Dr Wright Agent at the Crow Mission has been notified by the authorities to keep a sharp lookout for the hostile Sioux who were moving in the direction of his Agency from the scenes of their late depredations in Wyoming

The Idaho Signal hears of quite a number of stock men losing cattle and sheep in the Camas Prairie and the country north of Lewiston One thing against the welfare of stock this winter is the fact that the grass did not get a start last fall there being but very little rain—something unusual for this [illegible] generally there [illegible] enough [illegible] good

Whilst affairs in Utah legally and [illegible] can handle [illegible] worse than [illegible] it is gratifying to know that apart from [illegible] troubles which attach to the remaining [illegible] relic [illegible] outlook for the Territory is [illegible] being [illegible] capital are said to be seeking investment in mining enterprise [illegible] past year showing this property [illegible] the best of its class [illegible] the barbarous blot which defaces [illegible] is wiped out of existence [illegible] its prosperity and for the good name of the Republic

Of new comers at Tacoma the [illegible] says "On Friday night last, Mr W K Wilson moved his family over from Portland On Tuesday night Capt [illegible] Smith and family (seven children) moved over from Umatilla On Saturday night Mr Whittlesey's family will arrive from Kalama Mr W H Fife writes that he and his family and three other families will leave Cherokee Iowa for Tacoma W T about the first of April"
